HURRICANE SWEEPS PHILIPPINE ISLANDS TODAY

DEATH AND DESTRUCTION IN ITS TRAIL

ONLY 9 OUT OF CREW OF 37 OF STEAMER MAYON ARE RESCUED

CENTER OF TYPHON PLACED A FEW MILES NORTH OF MANILA

Manila, P. I., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Leaving death and destruction in its wake, a hurricane of typhoon proportions swept over the Philippine Islands today.

Only nine of the crew of 37 of the steamer Mayon, which foundered during the storm, were rescued. The fate of the other 28 was unknown.

The vessel sank off Pasacao, near the Regay Gulf in the Camarines Sur province. The nine survivors were taken there.

The ship was operating in the inter-island service when she was caught in the storm's vortex and sent to the bottom. It was not known whether any passengers were aboard.

Center of the typhoon was placed at a few miles north of Manila, between 6 and 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

The Island of Cebu; Tayabas province, which is in the southeastern part of northern Luzon, the province of Rizal and other parts of the Philippines had been devastated.

Torrential rains had flooded large areas doing great damage to crops and dwellings.

Government offices and schools were closed today and several newspaper plants were idle with the breakdown of the electric power supply. Communication with the provinces was disrupted.

Steamships had been warned of the approaching storm by signals posted by the weather bureaus.

Daring Wins Over Mechanical Perfection

Colorado Springs, Colo., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Daring won over mechanical perfection when Edward Phillips piloted his mount to victory over veterans of the course and skid proof machines in the 11th annual Pikes Peak hill climb Labor Day.

The race was a boon to front drive cars, but Phillips' recklessness in speeding over the treacherous 12-mile course was the outstanding feature of the race. His time was 18:22.7 minutes.

The front drive machines took the turns with splendid ease, being virtually skid proof. But Phillips drove his rear drive car around the turns and over a rough road without hesitating for danger.

In the stock car class Glenn Shultz, holder of the course record of 17:40.6 minutes, established a new mark when he piloted a Studebaker President to the top in 21:43.4.

TOMMY LOUGHRAN VACATES HIS TITLE

New York, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Tommy Loughran today vacated his title of light heavyweight champion of the world.

Joe Smith, manager of the former champion, appeared before the New York state athletic commission today and renounced the title without reservations on Loughran's behalf.

He then asked that the commission recognize the winner of the Loughran-Jack Sharkey match late this month as the heavyweight champion of the world.

The commission refused to do this. Smith asked then that the winner of the bout be recognized as heavyweight champion of America. The commission took no action on this request.

2 MORE BOMBINGS IN NEW ORLEANS STREET CAR STRIKE

New Orleans, La., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Two more bombings marked the New Orleans street car strike today, wrecking the homes of two employees of the Public Service company, presumably because they had refused to respond to the general strike call three months ago.

The blasts were of such force that they caused a wide area in the up-town section of the city to tremor as though it had been hit by an earthquake, but no one was injured.

Champion Fiddler Loses 3 Fingers; Out of Contest

Fulton, Mo., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Losing three fingers in a saw a few hours before the contest to decide the champion fiddler of the state was scheduled to start, Lee V. Latty, 1927-28 champion, was forced to withdraw. He was supported by many followers of the contest to retain his title.

17 PEOPLE DROWN WHEN BOAT UPSETS

Calcutta, India, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Seventeen persons were believed to have been drowned today when a boat overturned and sank in the river Hoogly.

HUGE BLACK BEAR, RETURNING TO SCENE OF CRIME, IS KILLED

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Disregarding its own animal instinct to obey a law of the human criminal, a huge black bear which left its forest haunts last week to kidnap and devour a three-year-old child, returned to the scene of its crime yesterday and was killed by the machine gun fire of a provincial policeman.

Neighbors and police were in waiting at the home of Fred Goricuk in a little forest clearing at Lowland, Manitoba. Two volleys from the machine gun were required to stop the charge of the bear toward the police. The bear measured nine feet and weighed 450 pounds.

QUESTION FINN ABOUT PEQUOT BANK ROBBERY

THOS. FINN TAKEN BY MINNEAPOLIS POLICE IN ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

WOUNDED BANDIT AND DEAD PARTNER BELIEVED IDENTIFIED IN MANY ROBBERIES

Minneapolis, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Partial solution of a number of major robberies in the northwest during the past few years was believed near today with the slaying of one bandit and the wounding of another here on Labor Day.

Gilbert Peterson, alias Roth, 28, was shot to death and Thomas Finn, notoriously known as Bill Finn was wounded by detectives when they attempted to hold up and rob a Pure Oil Company messenger of $8,000.

The officers were planted in the Pure Oil Company offices and when the bandits attempted to waylay the messenger, detectives opened fire killing Peterson and wounding Finn.

A half dozen "big time" robberies and three murders had been laid at the door of Peterson and Finn during the past five years by police, the most recent being the $9,000 Pequot robbery last week, for which they were sought for questioning.

Minneapolis, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Minneapolis police pointed today to the frustration of a robbery with the killing of one bandit and the serious wounding of another in the city's war against crime.

Gilbert Peterson, 28-year-old former prison inmate, was killed and Thomas Finn, 54, was wounded when they walked into a police trap while attempting to rob an oil messenger in a downtown office building. Detectives were assigned to watch the oil company offices after Peterson and Finn were seen loitering in the building.

The bandits were believed to have learned that Monday was collection day for the stations of the company and lay in wait in the offices until John Westman, the messenger, and a patrolman entered with $4,000 in receipts.

As Peterson barked a sharp "stick 'em up" from his hiding place behind a desk, four detectives opened fire through loop-holes from the next office. Peterson fell dead with a bullet in his brain and Finn was wounded as he attempted to escape.

FEDERAL INSPECTORS INVESTIGATE SINKING OF THE SAN JUAN

San Francisco, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Federal steamboat inspectors today resumed investigation into the sinking of the San Juan which went down off the central California coast last week with a loss of 73 persons.

That the investigation will be concerned more with the testimony of surviving officers of the San Juan, and officers of the S. C. T. Dodd, which collided with it, was intimated on the eve of today's session of the hearing.

Captain Frank Turner, steamboat inspector, said officers of the two ships would be summoned to testify but that surviving passengers of the San Juan would be called this week.

GRAVE ANXIETY FELT FOR MISSING VETERAN PILOT

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Grave anxiety was felt here today for Maj. John P. Woods, veteran pilot who was still missing, 29 hours after he took off from Los Angeles for Cleveland in the men's non-stop derby of the national air races.

The veteran pilot had taken off once before but had returned to the starting point when his Lockheed monoplane developed motor trouble. Three other contestants completed the flight for a share of the $10,000 prize.

With Maj. Wood was Russell Ward, a mechanic.

Democrats to Lay Down 3 Resolutions Aimed at Republican Tariff Bill Early in Session

SENATE MEETS AFTER 3 MONTHS SUMMER RECESS

THOMAS RESOLUTION SEEKS TO ELIMINATE ALL OF BILL SAVE INCREASED FARM RATES

SECOND AND THIRD RESOLUTIONS ALSO DESIGNED TO STIR UP ARGUMENT

By PAUL R. MALLON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 3.—Democrats will lay down three resolutions aimed at the republican tariff bill as soon as the senate reconvenes tomorrow from a three-month summer recess.

The first, the Thomas resolution, will seek to eliminate all of the bill save the increased agricultural rates. The second will call upon the republicans to reveal the embarrassing division in their own ranks encountered while they were framing the bill in the senate finance committee.

The third will demand a compilation of the dollars represented by various interests who appeared before the committee in behalf of higher industrial tariff duties.

With these three resolutions, the opposition will formally open the long awaited contest which is expected to last for months, and upon the fate of the first resolution may depend the whole tariff issue.

Nearly all of the 94 seated senators were on hand today ready for the opening. Chairman Smoot of the finance committee in charge of the bill announced he would not expect debate to start tomorrow but would demand the senate get down to business without fail Thursday.

The first schedule to come up for action is the chemical provision of the bill, a $28,000,000 schedule. Seventy-four of the chemical rates of the house bill were changed by the committee, 56 being decreased and 18 increased. Even with the decreases the schedule is still, as a whole, slightly above existing law.

The democrats have drawn a series of amendments to this schedule which will be introduced in bulk when the senate gets around to them. Pending introduction of them, the democrats have declined to divulge their nature.

A free-for-all contest is expected immediately over the Thomas resolution, with the farm bloc and democrats working against the general industrial increases and for the farm increases while the republicans defend the measure as it stands.

WIFE OF PANTAGES NOW ON TRIAL

Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of Alexander Pantages, nationally known theatrical man, went to trial here today charged with the second degree murder of Juro Rokomoto, Japanese.

Attorneys immediately started selecting the jury which will determine whether Mrs. Pantages must spend from five years to life in prison as a result of the automobile crash in which Rokomoto was fatally injured.

With Mrs. Pantages in the courtroom were her husband, who later this month must face an assault charge preferred by a 17-year-old girl.

CHICAGO'S 83RD BOMB OF YEAR HITS RESTAURANT

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Chicago's 83rd bomb of the year exploded at the side of a west side restaurant today.

The restaurant, newly opened, was owned by Norman Mokron. He said the bombing probably was due to employment disputes. Damage was slight. No one was injured.

FOREST FIRES ARE RAGING IN UPPER WISCONSIN

SWEEPING OVER 30,000 ACRE TRACT IN MOQUAH NATIONAL FOREST

ALMOST COMPLETELY BEYOND CONTROL OF 300 VOLUNTEER RANGERS

Superior, Wis., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—One of the worst forest fires in the history of upper Wisconsin swept over a 30,000 acre tract in the Moquah National Forest today, almost completely beyond the control of 300 volunteer rangers.

Fanned by strong winds the consuming wall of flames devoured a great expanse of dry jack pine forest and destroyed a number of homesteads in its path.

F. E. Percy, fire warden, declared it was the most serious fire he had ever seen.

Weather forecasts of local showers and thunderstorms probably today were looked upon cheerfully since it generally was believed that a drenching rain was the only means by which the fire could be brought under control.

The huge blaze was the outcome of the driest August weather in this territory since 1878. The stunted jack pine and small under growth was described as bone dry and dangerously inflammable.

Fire first broke out a week ago, was smothered by rangers, but the smoldering embers were fanned into life again this week and the situation made desperate.

One Man Killed and One Injured as Plane Crashes

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—C. B. Adsit was killed and another passenger was seriously injured when an airplane piloted by Willis Young crashed near here today. E. W. Hothwals, the other passenger, and Adsit were highway engineers. Young was only slightly injured.

Sinclair Forbidden to Leave Jail While Serving Sentence

Washington, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Orders have been issued forbidding Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, from leaving the District of Columbia jail while serving his sentence for jury shadowing during the Teapot Dome conspiracy trial, it was learned today.

BRITAIN TO GUARD AGAINST ARAB INVASION

CONTINUED REPORTS OF ARAB MOVEMENTS ALONG TRANS-JORDANIA FRONTIER

AVIATORS ARE KEEPING SHARP LOOKOUT, MUCH RIOTING IN NORTHERN AREA

Jerusalem, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—In view of the continued reports of Arab movements along the frontiers of Trans-Jordan and Syria, the British authorities in Palestine today took further precautions against the danger of an Arab invasion.

The forces policing the frontier districts were strengthened and aviators were instructed to keep a sharp eye on any Arab group that might attempt to slip across the frontiers into Palestine.

Continued rioting was reported to be taking place between Arabs and Jews in the northern regions. The British authorities, however, claimed to have the situation pretty well under control.

Besides tracking down Arab tribes which threatened to renew attacks, the aviators distributed the proclamation of the British high commissioner, Sir John Robert Chancellor, dropping the leaflets throughout the populated regions of the country.

The warring factions were greatly impressed by the severity of the proclamation, particularly the passage announcing the suspension of discussions regarding the constitutional changes in Palestine.

These discussions were initiated by the chancellor in England on the request of the Arab leaders.

London, Sept. 3.—An announcement by the colonial office declared the total casualties in Palestine to August 31 were 196 killed and 315 wounded. The Northern Palestine region in the vicinity of Safed was reported to be restless but the rest of the country has quieted down.

Beyrouth, Sept. 3.—Unconfirmed reports received here today said British airplanes reconnoitering along the frontier bombed the village of Sarda in the Marjayoun district where Arabs appeared to be concentrating, ostensibly with the intention of crossing into Palestine.

YOUNG HEFLIN OUT ON BOND

Phoenix City, Ala., Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—J. Thomas Heflin, Jr., son of the "dry" senator from Alabama, was released in bonds of $117.50 today and will be brought to trial later in the week on charges of public drunkenness.

After spending the night in jail Heflin was released and his trial date set at first for tomorrow, was advanced to Friday morning. He and E. M. Haines, a friend whose home is in Standing Rock, Ala., were arrested last night.

The automobile in which they were driving, with Haines at the wheel, careened dizzily into town and failed to halt at an intersection despite the commands of a suspicious policeman.

STORK BRINGS A DAUGHTER TO MUSSOLINI FAMILY

Carpena, Italy, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Signora Mussolini, wife of the premier, gave birth to a daughter today at the Mussolini family residence here. The child was named Anna Maria.

It was the premier's fifth child, or "the second infant of the second series," as Mussolini himself recently expressed it.

The first series ended with Bruno, who is now 11. There were no more children until the "second series" began with the birth of Romano in September, 1927.

Mussolini was understood to have determined to make a contribution to his "more children" campaign in Italy.

DEATH GOES HAND IN HAND WITH PLEASURE SEEKERS

LARGEST NUMBER WAS KILLED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

NATION WIDE SURVEY SHOWS 153 PEOPLE LOST LIVES IN DOUBLE HOLIDAY

Chicago, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Death went hand in hand with millions of pleasure seekers who took advantage of the double holiday over Labor Day and sought refuge from the heat on the beaches and country highways.

By far the largest number was killed in traffic accidents when roads leading from metropolitan centers teemed with automobiles. Oceans and lake beaches, jammed with swimmers who dipped into the cooling waters as the mercury stayed above 90, contributed to the second largest number of fatalities.

A nation-wide survey showed that at least 155 persons lost their lives when the nation laid aside business and went looking for pleasure.

The metropolitan areas of New York, Illinois and California, together with the cool lake country of Wisconsin contributed half of the death toll. The rest was scattered from the first mountains of Idaho to the eastern seaboard.

The United Press tabulation showed 97 automobile deaths, 29 drownings, 7 fatalities from airplane crashes and parachute jumps and the rest about equally divided between murders, suicides and miscellaneous causes.

A wave of oppressive heat lay over most of the country, the mercury hovering above 90 in California, the eastern seaboard and the middle west. To escape the stifling heat, millions donned bathing suits and sought the cooling waters of the Pacific, Atlantic and inland lakes.

The heat appeared to hit hardest in Pennsylvania, Washington and Virginia. There were 60 prostrations reported from that area—42 from Washington and Virginia, 16 from Pennsylvania and two from New York. Despite the large number of prostrations, only one death was reported—that from New York.

By states, Illinois led in holiday deaths, 32 giving their lives over the week-end in accidents and murders that were directly attributed to the holiday. New York was second in the list with 15, Wisconsin close behind with 14 and California and Iowa next with 10 each. The remaining toll was scattered over the entire nation.

Five young men from Chicago were drowned in Long Lake, near Waukegan, Ill., when their overloaded outboard motor boat overturned in three feet of water. The youths were held fast by the mud bottom of the lake.

At Billings, Mont., a 33-year-old miner, angered by a separation from his wife, killed her and three of her family and then committed suicide.

Financial worries were believed to have caused Frank Pestotnik, 50, of Boone, Iowa, to kill his wife and daughter and then commit suicide.

Three airplane crashes in Oklahoma, California and Rhode Island killed six persons, two of them women. A dare devil stunt man was killed at Buffalo when his parachute failed to open.

A four-year-old Milwaukee boy died of burns suffered when a fireworks bomb, an apparent "dud" used in a church celebration, exploded at his home.

A gang murder and a cafe shooting claimed two more lives in Chicago while a 10-year-old girl was shot to death mysteriously at her home near Manhattan, Ill.

A fire-fighter was killed fighting forest fires near the Canadian border at Spokane, Wash.

St. Paul, Sept. 3.—Automobiles exacted a heavy toll of lives in Minnesota over the week-end holidays, it was revealed here today.

Eleven persons were killed in traffic crashes in addition to the death of a child at White Bear, electrocuted when she came in contact with a

FORCED OFF HER COURSE BY 50 MILE WIND

CAPT. LEHMANN IS FORCED TO SWING TO SOUTH OF THE AZORES

HAD REACHED A POINT SLIGHTLY NORTHEAST OF THE ISLANDS

Corunna, Spain, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—The Graf Zeppelin, completing a speedy passage over the Atlantic, passed over here at 5:40 P. M. today (12:40 P. M. EST). The dirigible was headed along the northwestern tip of Spain across the Bay of Biscay into France. It was the first time on her trans-Atlantic wandering that she had chosen that route.

The dirigible passed over Cape Finisterre at 4:30 P. M., over Camarinas, to the north at 4:45 P. M. and over here 55 minutes later. Camarinas is a small town 43 miles west southwest of here, indicating a speed of approximately 47 miles an hour. Several persons saw the dirigible, despite the fog which prevailed. The Zeppelin was travelling about 2 1/2 miles from the coast.

By RALPH HEINZEN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard S. S. America, Sept. 3.—By wireless via Portland radio station—The Graf Zeppelin was sighted over the Spanish coast at 4:30 P. M. Greenwich time (11:30 A. M. EST.), the America ascertained by wireless.

Capt. Ernst Lehmann, in command of the dirigible, gleefully wirelessed to Germany:

"We have succeeded from coast to coast again."

King Alfonso of Spain sent radio greetings to the Zeppelin.

Capt. Lehmann wirelessed he hoped to cross the northwestern shoulder of Spain into the Bay of Biscay within an hour.

Cape Finisterre was plainly visible, Lehmann said. Many ships were seen underneath as the Zeppelin neared land. The dirigible's wireless operator was busy receiving messages of congratulation.

Aboard S. S. America at Sea, Sept. 3.—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin was riding a gale toward Friedrichshafen today after being forced off her coast by a 50-mile wind.

Radio messages received by the America from the dirigible said Capt. Ernst Lehmann had been forced to swing to the south of the Azores after reaching a point slightly northeast of the islands.

Throughout Monday, Lehmann reported, the Graf's radio was kept silent by storms and thunderstorms. After striking the storm area, the dirigible swung to the south of the Azores and again straightened out for Europe. It was at 10:45 P. M. GMT yesterday (5:45 P. M. Monday EST.) that Lehmann radioed his intention to circle back and go around the Azores.

It was apparent to those aboard the America that the Zeppelin was having difficulty making headway against the storm. Even this big liner was badly shaken by the wind and waves and obviously the situation would have been much worse on a lighter-than-air craft.

Capt. Lehmann radioed he would fly over Frankfurt-Am-Main before landing at Friedrichshafen.

Many other vessels besides the America are maintaining contact with the Zeppelin to furnish weather reports.

TAKES TO PARACHUTE WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Los Angeles, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Wesley Miller, mechanic for Major John Wood on a Los Angeles to Cleveland speed flight, jumped with a parachute shortly before the plane crashed near Needles, Calif., according to a report to Metropolitan airport officials here today.

The fate of Major Wood was not known, it was said.

metal floor lamp believed to have been short circuited.

The most serious automobile accident occurred near Grand Rapids, where three men were crushed to death when a gravel truck overturned. The dead included:

Oscar Peterson, Effie; Clayton Marks and Thomas Harrington, both of Big Fork, killed near Grand Rapids when Peterson's heavily loaded truck went out of control and crashed in the ditch.

Mrs. Rosa A. Hutchins, 83, Minneapolis, and Mrs. Lillian Foster, Seton, Minn. Mrs. Hutchins was fatally injured in a crash in Minneapolis Monday while Mrs. Foster was among the six persons killed Saturday night and Sunday but not identified until yesterday.

Vera Mae Morok, 8-year-old daughter of Carl J. Morok, White Bear Lake, was shocked to death when she came in contact with the floor lamp.

TOURIST FLOOD OVER WEEK-END

Tourist Camp on Sunday,

MANY TAKE SIDE-TRIPS

Total of 105 Cars Registered at the Camp on Sunday and Labor Day

The warm weather over the week end brought an exceptional number of tourists to the Brainerd tourist camp on Sunday, September 1. While Brainerd families travelled to the Twin Cities for the state fair, St. Paul and Minneapolis residents escaped the heat and crowds by motoring north for a two or three day camping trip in Minnesota's playground. Touring parties pitched tents in the camp, leaving the following day for side-trips to Itasca park, the iron range, or short stops at some of the many Crow Wing county lakes.

A total of 105 cars registered at the camp Sunday and Labor Day. Sunday alone was the best day of the season with a total of 67 cars. The record for the past month of August shows a small increase of 28 cars over July. July brought 1,205 cars to the camp; August 1,233. With figures for May and June, this brings the season's total to 2,877 cars carrying 10,125 people.

During August 435 out-of-state cars from 21 states and four Canadian provinces were registered. Iowa topped the out-of-state registration with 132 cars. Manitoba was second with 94 cars. Figures for other well represented states are: Illinois 68, North Dakota 29, Wisconsin 28, Nebraska 19. Two cars from New York City and one from California held the distance record.

PRESENT LETTERS TO PARAMOUNT OFFICIAL

New York, N. Y., Sept. 2. — Nearly three thousand letters from governors, mayors, chiefs of police, judges, parent-teacher groups, clergymen, public health officials, and leading citizens everywhere, representing every one of nearly 400 cities in the United States, commending the policies of Publix Theatres and Paramount Pictures, were presented today to Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount-Famous Lasky Corporation, as the official start of "International Paramount Month." Among them were letters from Brainerd.

The letters, mounted and bound into a huge golden volume were the spontaneous communications sent to Mr. Zukor as president of Paramount, and to Sam Katz as president of Publix Theatres, subsidiary of Paramount, on the fourth birthday of Publix Theatres and the 20th birthday of Paramount pictures. The volume will be placed on display in the tower of the Paramount building.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

SMART ZIGZAGS

In spite of all the feminine flounces and frills that appear on afternoon gowns and evening frocks, women still prefer straight, tailored lines for street wear, the only concession to the new mode being in the form of the softening lingerie touches which are now so much in vogue. A trim example of the current daytime style is shown here. It would be charming in a dark wool crepe with white flat crepe for the vestee and for the round collar, the shape of the collar being one which marks it as distinctly new. The zigzag lines of the skirt cut avoid any monotony.

ENROLLMENT AT SCHOOLS INCREASE

Opening Day of School Find 30 Additional Pupils at Brainerd High School

WHITTIER ATTENDANCE UP

Parents Urged to Cooperate in Checking Smoking Among Boy Students

The total enrollment in the high school for the first half day appears on a hasty check-up to be 614 and would seem to indicate that the high school will be appreciably larger this year than last as the registration at the end of the fourth week last year was 608. At a rough estimate it would be safe to assume that the high school is probably larger by 25 or 30 pupils than last year.

The enrollment at the Whittier school has been appreciably increased over last year due, in part, to the registration of pupils from Front street and some from Laurel. This is proving a material benefit to the undue crowding at the Lincoln which was conspicuous last year. The Whittier has enrolled for the first day, 255. The Riverside and Garfield have shown no increase in registration over last year. The enrollment at the Harrison for the first day is 328 pupils, at the Lincoln 336 and at the Lowell 402. The total enrollment for the first day in all the schools is approximately 2,040.

At the opening of school it would materially assist the schools and particularly in the high school department if parents would cooperate with the principal, teachers and truant officers in the observance of the state law as well as the state athletic rules on the subject of smoking. The state law makes it a misdemeanor for pupils attending the public schools under 21 years of age to use tobacco outside of their home premises. The state athletic rules disqualify all pupils from engaging in inter-school athletics of whatever nature for the entire year for any violation of the state law concerning the use of tobacco. The truant officer has already had occasion to pick up several boys for such violation on the opening day of school. The athletic coach was materially handicapped last year in all branches of inter-school sports, football, basketball, and track, because of non-eligibility of desirable candidates who were ineligible because of such violation.

Beautiful Pictures at State Fair

THERE are beautiful pictures at the State Fair. The nineteenth annual exhibition of fine arts in the Fine Arts Galleries is a most commendable one.

The purpose of the Fine Arts Department of the Minnesota State Fair is to provide pleasure and education for all art lovers and to stimulate the appreciation of art. Each year a variety of exhibitions is assembled illustrating all phases of art production. Notable collections, both old and new, are displayed.

This year the Art Department is indebted to the Grand Central Galleries of New York, the Chicago Art Institute, the Albert Roullier Art Galleries of Chicago, and the Yamanaka Galleries of New York and Chicago, whose cooperation has made possible the display of four distinctive collections this year.

The special loan exhibit of paintings and bronzes from the Grand Central Galleries is without doubt one of the finest collections of American art ever brought to the Northwest. The group includes a number of the prize canvases which received awards in New York this year.

The Ninth International Water Color exhibition loaned by the Chicago Art Institute, also shown this year, includes several hundred exquisite examples of this form of art.

From the Albert Roullier Art Galleries there is a most interesting group of prints showing the history of graphic art in printed design. The earlier examples in this collection are wood blocks of the thirteenth century, and the latest are contemporary etchings.

The contribution of the Yamanaka Galleries is an exhibit of Oriental art, containing antique No robes, priest robes, paintings and rare Japanese prints. Nothing like this exhibit has ever been shown by the Fine Arts Department before. Especially striking is a Japanese woven gold brocade kimono of the Ansei period 1772 to 1780; also an antique Japanese brocade Kyoho of the period of 1716 to 1735.

An unusual portrait study is that designated "Portrait of Mary" by Sidney Dickinson in the American art section of the Grand Central Galleries collection. The ocean in all its varying moods is wonderfully depicted by F. J. Waugh in four oils entitled "Morning," "Rising Tides," "The Lone Rock" and "Where Shore Meets Ocean." The tang of the salt air, the lash of the waves, the grim rocks resisting the perpetual invasion of the water, the flash of the skies, every phase has been caught by this wonderful artist.

"Keach's Barn in Spring" by R. S. Woodward is a most interesting study of a farm scene depicted in brilliant colors.

In the water color exhibition, American section, Frank W. Benson's painting entitled "Cape Cod Trout Brook" will appeal to every sportsman. Two striking water colors by the French painter Lucien Simon are his "Washerwomen" and "Negresses." The Russian artist Vladimir Pavlosky has a fine example of his art entitled "Oguquit Rocks."

There was a noticeable absence of the so-called futurist and cubist art which never does appeal to common mortals. When a man has to consult his catalog to see whether the painting is a study of a riotous cabbage or a wild rose or an artist's conception of a blast furnace, we can hardly call it art. It is poor art that cannot tell its own story without an interpreter.

State Highway Patrol

THE State Highway Patrol has a fine exhibition in the State Departments building at the State Fair. It has the place of honor in the center of the building with lots of light and cool air. Motorcycles used by the state patrol are shown and Lieutenant George Kueh and Patrolman J. G. Dahl said they could speed up to 80 miles an hour.

A new thing is the set of two plate scales which placed under front and rear wheels of a truck record the weight and give the patrolmen accurate data if overloading seems to be practiced by motor truckmen.

Earle Brown, superintendent of the patrol, is a versatile citizen. Formerly sheriff of Hennepin county, a millionaire sportsman, he also has a wonderful stock farm. "Barn 'F'" at the State Fair is filled with Brooklyn Belgians from the Brooklyn Farms of Mr. Brown, who was awarded a flock of first prizes.

Many citizens inspect the Patrol exhibit and chat with the two representatives of the force. On the way home from the Fair last night, motorists saw Patrolman Mike Auspos at Elk River where Mike was surveying the throng with practiced eye and on the alert to solve any traffic arguments.

Government Umpiring

MARKING the point of divergence between the economic philosophy of the Old World and the New, Julius H. Barnes, Vice President of the International Chamber of Commerce for the United States, set forth the role of government in business at the Amsterdam Congress of that organization.

"Differing as conditions are in the Old World and the New," he said, "recognizing the limitations imposed by history and tradition and by the social theories of differing people, we of America must nevertheless state our conviction with clarity and emphasis. We believe that in America's progress, that in the constant surging forward of living standards and average possession and enjoyment, in the swelling indicators of industry and finance, in what we believe to be the security of rights and opportunities for all our people, there is no single motive force equal to the guarantee of equal opportunity that rests in a political philosophy that government is an arbiter, an umpire of fair play in industry, and not a player of the game."

THE other day we met a couple returning from Chicago and bound for home 60 miles away. Their money ran out 10 miles south of Brainerd which testified to the fact that their vacation had been well and wisely spent.

A WOMAN is given credit for having a lot of intuition, but in spite of that she asks a lot of questions.

THE old-fashioned autograph album is not lost—it is now worn as a slicker.

ECONOMY is anything a woman wants to buy.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

By GRANT DIXON

A Real Touch of the Orient

New York.—The dramatic critics never seem to visit the Bowery's Chinese theater, a novelty, to be sure. It is housed in a building dingy past the point of dilapidation. The scenery is strangely assorted of old stock company sets eked out with chairs of uncertain lineage, brocaded cushions and other stage properties. The members of the orchestra sit in plain view on the stage. They appear in their shirt sleeves, their hats hung upon the scenery at the side. They play to lend "motif" to the drama.

An interesting point about these Chinese audiences, too. They are so steeped in the play that they readily prompt actors. If an actor hesitates for a second, his cue is likely to be shouted from the gallery.

I imagine all this would baffle our critics—particularly the fact that one show is apt to take a week or more before its presentation is completed.

Money in His Shoes

Well, a fellow by the name of Billy Pierce, from Virginia, came to town and tried to figure out how to make a living. There are all kinds of rackets here. The problem is to select the right racket.

Billy, in his amateur moments, had made quite a bit of racket tap dancing. So he established a tap dancing school. They tell me it's the rage on Broadway. Everybody's tap dancing. Including the people who live above me, as evidenced by the cracks in the plaster ceiling.

Getting Down to Figures

Beauty has been reduced to common denominators. I. H. Herk, president of the Mutual Bureaucratic association, informs me that hereafter he will hire no girls, regardless of their looks, if they don't fit into these measurements:

Height, 5 feet 3 inches; shoulders, 13½ inches; waist, 26 inches; hips, 34 inches; bust, 34 inches; thigh, 15½ inches; calf, 13 inches; ankle, 7 inches.

All Very Strange

Men's shoes and women's hats are so loud on Fifth avenue today that stores ought to advertise: "For Sale: Shoes and Hats—With Sound."

Horatio Alger books continue on sale in spite of an age that scoffs at his hazy idea of "fight and win." You can get the books in obscure second-hand shops for ten cents a piece. Saw a lady taxicab driver in Times square the other day. A lady barber, or a lady usher achieves favorable attention, but humanity still remains doubtful about lady drivers—unless they restrict their driving to the back seat.

An Old House in Chelsea

They say that one of the best preserved and least altered of the century-old houses of New York is in West Twenty-second street in old Chelsea. It was built in 1827 by an English cotton manufacturer named Gargill on a lot purchased from Dr. Clement C. Moore, author of "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

In this home gathered at various times the literary, social and stage celebrities of the time. William Cullen Bryant, Parke Goodwin and N. P. Willis were among the famous to enjoy hospitality in the place. Mrs. Edwin Forrest, when hostess, smoked "little white segars," presumably cigarettes—before the days of blind-fold tests and such.

Merry English Wives Break Up Hubby's Meal

Weymouth, England.—Since they were given the vote it would not seem English women are not as submissive to their husbands as of yore.

There's the case of the dinner organization by the male members of the Weymouth Operatic society. They were out for a good time and thought they were going to have it.

When they arrived at their banquet hall each husband found a note pinned to his napkin reading, "What about your poor wives and the children at home?"

From the neighboring banquet room there was noise of high revelry. The abashed husbands peeked in and to their dismay saw their wives holding a banquet of their own. The women had entered the room by stealth from a rear entrance.

Every time the men started to sing, their wives in the adjoining room did likewise, but from a different tune. Finally both diners broke up in comparative disorder.

"A Glimpse Into Paradise"

By HELEN R. BARTON

(Copyright.)

EMMELINE's fingers and toes had reached the stage where she wouldn't have noticed the prince of Wales had he suddenly appeared before her. But, as a matter of fact, the young man who timidly pushed open the door to the doctor's study that icy, wind-swept January day, was about as remotely different from the celebrated perfection of manhood as Ethel Barrymore is from a Zulu princess.

There were a few coals in the open grate, and Emmeline had hung her snowshoes into the hall and had crouched over the fire, striving to ease the painful numbness that had driven her from her snowshoeing. Eventually she had become aware that her feet were paining her. So, with her success, she had tried to force her numb feet into the softness of unfasting the red rubber boots of her high boots.

"I say, let me help you, won't you? You seem to be having a whale of a time with those knots." And the young man stooped and unfastened the boot laces, removed the boots, and then, with business-like efficiency, advised her to get some warm water and try soaking her hands and rubbing them with a rough towel. Gratefully, Emmeline went to do his bidding. Ten minutes later, her father, being absent, she went back to his office to chat with the strange young man until the doctor should return from his calls. To her utter amazement, she discovered the young man there in a dead faint.

Emmy's knees shook as she went about the swift business of restoring the young man. The scars on his cheek and forehead told of either a war injury or some other accident or injury, perhaps causing the faint powdering of gray hairs at the temple, while the rest of his hair was raven black.

He stirred at last and smiled wanly up at her. Emmeline flashed him a warmly friendly smile and said softly: "You mustn't try to get up; you don't want me to have all that to go through again, do you? You scared me nearly out of my wits!"

Soberly the young man turned his gaze toward the fire as he said softly: "So many of my pals have felt out of the way, since the war finished things for some of us that I'm just another square peg. I suppose! And you simply couldn't understand how it hurts to feel that one is a burden!"

"Who?" demanded Emmy fiercely, "ever made you feel so? Just tell me the name, please, and I'll give him just one chance to tell me what kind of strychnine he prefers, that's all." And Emmy's soft blue eyes flashed such wrath and fire that Link Schofield smiled back at her in a most disarming, little-boy sort of way. They were in the midst of Link's war experiences when Doctor Kingsbury returned and Emmy departed hastily at her father's unmistakable "high sign."

She thought often of Link in the days that followed, but he did not come again, and Emmeline finally decided that he hadn't cared about what she had said, or how she had looked—to drop into her life so casually, and so easily drop out again. So she thought that she had hardened her heart against him, and she occupied herself with her flowers, her garden, her music and whatever came her way as the long days drifted by.

Then, one day, Emmy happened to look up from her gardening (she was transplanting pansies), and there he was staring at her over the garden wall. And as quickly as she had looked up, he was gone down the street. For a blank moment she gazed after him, and then, casting discretion to the far winds, she sprinted after him very much like a schoolgirl. Catching up with him, she said: "Do you mean to say you'd go right by my house without even speaking to me? You ought to be ashamed!"

"Propped by her eager hands he was soon back inside the garden, sitting on a shabby old bench, watching her working in the warm, moist earth.

Of a sudden a thought struck Emmeline. Turning swiftly, she looked straight into Link's troubled eyes and said: "Have you been here before?"

Startled, he flushed painfully and said: "Yes—sometimes."

"Then—you came by on the hope of seeing me—Link?" she persisted gently.

"Yes," he confessed, "it was like a glimpse into Paradise!" He looked off beyond the distant horizon as though to find surcease for the pain in his eyes.

"But, Link—" she protested.

"Can't you see," he grated harshly, "that nothing like that is for me? That I might have lived to ninety, but might not finish out five years more?"

"But those five years," she persisted unhappily, "wouldn't they be worth it?"

"It wouldn't be fair to you," he said gruffly, "even if you could care for such a wreck—"

"Ah, Link," she cried, "only those who dare to push the door open ever get into Paradise; the rest stand outside, peering in! Don't make me open the door for you!"

With a muttered exclamation, he gathered her tenderly into his hungry arms, scarcely daring to believe his happiness.

PHILCO BALANCED UNIT SCREEN GRID RECEIVER

In a cabinet of soft two-toned brown, the new Philco Balanced-Unit Table Model is on display in the window of Hall's Music House.

This receiver is a strictly A. C. 6-tube Screen Grid set, using two new UX245 power tubes in push-bull audio. It has the new Philco tuning dial, giving kilocycle channel numbers, and has true one dial tuning.

Philco Balanced Units mean that every electrical part is carefully matched and balanced by means of the most rigid and exact manufacturing and testing methods so that each condenser, resistance and inductance work together at the peak of efficiency presenting a clear path through the set for the desired radio impulse so that it reaches the ear free from distortion and set noises and as clear as when it leaves the broadcast station.

The Table Model priced at $67.00 gives radio buyers an opportunity to have a most modern Screen Grid receiver, with its tremendous amplification and wonderful tone, at a price that no one ever dreamed possible a few months ago.

Friends you can trust

Advertised products are your friends wherever you find them. You know them. And you can buy them with confidence—sure of honest value for your money. For they have stood the test of public scrutiny, they have been advertised and found worthy.

For advertising, after all, is a test—a trial by the fire of public approval. Today no manufacturer would start advertising his products unless he knew they were sound and good. And if errors did creep in, he would be quick to correct them, for to hold business he must uphold the confidence advertising has created among millions of people for his wares.

Advertising brings protection to the consumer. It guarantees honest value. It sends quality up. The manufacturer who advertises builds up such a volume of sales that he gives far more in both quality and quantity than the non-advertiser can possibly do.

Seek out your friends—the advertised products. Favor the dealer who handles them. Look for them on the shelves. Watch for them in the show windows. They are the hallmarks of a good business house. They are negotiable guarantees of value. They are friends you can trust.

Advertised products are sometimes not the cheapest you can buy; but they are always the cheapest to own

Flashing to the front when Cliff Bergere, Hollywood, Calif., was forced out of the race by engine trouble, Meyer finished first in 1 hour, 16 minutes, 38.8 seconds.

BOTH SWINGING INTO THE HOME STRETCH NOW

IN POSITION TO CLINCH FLAGS
IN 2 MAJOR LEAGUES 10 DAYS
BEFORE SEASON CLOSES

ALL OTHER CONTENDERS ELIM-INATED EXCEPT PIRATES AND YANKEES

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Sept. 3.—Swinging into the home stretch, the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Athletics are in a position to clinch the pennants in the two major leagues ten days before the close of the season Sunday, October 6.

It is quite possible that they will remove all but a slender mathematical chance separating them from the championships within the next seven or eight days.

All other contenders in each league have been eliminated from the race except the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees.

The Cubs hold a 1½ game lead over the Pirates and need 16 victories in 27 games to clinch the National League pennant regardless of what Pittsburgh does.

The Athletics hold a 12½-game lead over the Yankees and need only 13 victories in 27 games to clinch the American League pennant regardless of what New York does.

Connie Mack's crew delivered a staggering blow to the Yankees' hopes of even making a fighting finish by taking two games from the former world champions yesterday.

The New York Giants were definitely put out of the race yesterday when the Phillies won the second game of a double-header. Should the Giants win all their remaining games, they could not win the pennant even if the Cubs lost all of their remaining games.

The St. Louis Browns and Cleveland Indians also have lost even a mathematical chance of tying for the American League pennant.

If the Yankees win 20 out of their remaining 27 games, the Athletics need only 6 victories in 27 games to clinch the flag.

If the Pirates win 20 out of their remaining 28 games, the Cubs need only 8 out of 27 games to clinch the flag.

Both major league leaders apparently have recovered from their worst slumps of the season. With Jimmy Dykes back in the line-up, the Athletics took on new life against the Yankees.

With Dykes at third, Jimmy Foxx went back to first base and George Burns to the bench. The conviction is growing that Dykes, who has played second, shortstop and third base this season, is one of the most vital cogs in the Athletics' machine.

After losing four out of five to the Pirates, the Cubs have returned to form against the Cardinals. The Cubs won two games yesterday by the sheer power of hitting. They made 36 hits in two games, Hornsby, Stephenson and English getting six each.

COMPETES IN RACES AT LAKE MINNETONKA

Driving an outboard speed motor boat for Paul Larson, Little Falls, now recuperating from injuries received in a recent boat collision, Carl Olson, Brainerd, failed to finish in his class race at Lake Minnetonka Labor Day.

His boat overturned throwing him into the water. He suffered no ill effects from his experience.

Slugging Outfielder O'Doul

ADD the name of Lefty O'Doul, slugging outfielder of the Phillies, to the rather rare group of players who have forsaken the pitcher's box and followed other diamond pursuits with unusual success.

O'Doul by virtue of his sensational work with the Phils this season deserves to be ranked with Babe Ruth, George Sisler and Sam Rice, all of whom came to big time as hurlers only to quit the mound for regular posts because of their ability to swat the old horsehide.

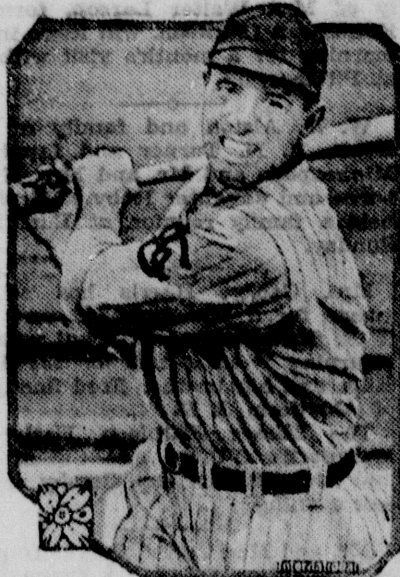

Ruth and Sisler were two clever southpaws, although their pitching performances have been more or less forgotten. Sisler while a student at Michigan was one of the premier hurlers in collegiate circles.

Rice hurled a few games after joining the Washington club back in 1915, but the story has it that after taking a terrific lacing in one contest he quit the hurling pastime for good.

O'Doul started his pitching career with San Francisco in 1917. Two years later he was sold to the Yankees only to return to the Pacific Coast in 1921. In 1923 he was with the Red Sox, but was released to Salt Lake the following summer.

It was while with Salt Lake in 1925 that O'Doul decided to give up pitching for the daily work of chasing flies in the outfield. He proved to be an early success, batting .375 in 198 games. Then the Cubs bought him only to turn him over to Hollywood, where he hit .338 in 180 tilts. The next season found him with San Francisco again, hanging up a mark of .378 in 189 games.

In 1928 the Giants bought O'Doul, and in 114 games the one-time hurler hit .319. Last fall he was traded to the Phillies with a bunch of cash for Fred Leach. This year he got off to a great start and has been hitting the ball consistently ever since, being right up with the leaders in the National league.

Lefty O'Doul.

Yesterday's Hero—Bill Clark, Brooklyn southpaw, who pitched the only shutout in 16 major league games in both leagues. He held the Boston Braves to two hits, Brooklyn winning the second game, 10 to 0, after taking the first, 6 to 2.

The Chicago Cubs hammered out a double triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals, 11 to 7 and 12 to 10. The Cubs made 36 hits, 16 off Mitchell and Hal-lahan in the first game and 20 off Sher-del and Frankhouse in the second.

After winning the first game, 11 to 4, the New York Giants allowed the second game to slip from their grasp in 12 innings, and the Phillies won, 4 to 3.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati divided a doubleheader, the Reds taking the opener, 7 to 5, and the Pirates the nightcap, 9 to 8.

YOUNGSTER LEADS CONTESTANTS AT PEBBLE BEACH

NATIONAL AMATEUR GOLF CHAM-

LEADERS NOT DUE TO START OVER COURSE AGAIN UNTIL
THIS AFTERNOON

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 3.—Favored once more by perfect golfing weather, the field at Pebble Beach went out for the final qualifying test today.

Wisps of early morning fog from Carmel Bay still hung in the pines when Bill McPhail, spectated Massachusetts amateur, and Charley Walter of Oakland started the ball rolling.

The first day's leaders, Gibson Dunlap of Los Angeles, who carded a 69 to top the field, and Bobby Jones, defending champion, who had a 70, were not due to start until afternoon.

The morning galleries, accordingly, were small and there was no hint of Monday's record attendance, when 9,200 paid admission to Pebble Beach to witness the start of the National Amateur Golf Championship.

Gene Homans' the dark-haired, serious-faced New Jersey amateur who equalled par on his first attempt, was one of the early starters, and the east-erner kept up the pace with a screeching eagle three at the second hole. Homans started out 3-3-4, two strokes under par.

Athletics to take a doubleheader from the New York Yankees, 10 to 3 and 6 to 5.

Detroit beat the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 8, but dropped the second game, 8 to 2.

Washington and Boston split a twin bill, the Senators winning, 10 to 7, and the Red Sox, 7 to 2.

SPEED! Speed!! and more Speed!!!
That is the cry in sports, whether it be tennis, boxing, football or baseball.

Who is the fastest man in baseball?
Major league athletes and fans are at present in the throes of a controversy which is gathering momentum by the minute and which threatens to reach the proportions of a national problem.

A good many years back this same question brought about an argument which grew and grew until Hans Lobert squashed it by establishing the remarkable record of 13 4-5 second for a complete round of the bags. A record which still stands.

The present day controversy centers around three youngsters in major league competition, Chick Fullis, of the Giants; Evar "Speedy" Swanson and Ethan Allen, both members of the Cincinnati Reds.

John McGraw is credited with starting all the trouble by stating that, in his opinion, Fullis is the fastest man in either league. Immediately there arose a hue and cry from baseball writers and fans with the names of Swanson and Allen ringing loud and clear.

Fullis is certainly fast and in addition is one of the brightest prospects of the McGraw outfit. And Swanson is fast, too. Don't forget that! And his speed is not limited to use on the bases, for he is one of the best men in either league when it comes to getting down under long drives in the outfield. And then there's Allen, another Cincinnati fly-chaser. He's—oh, what's the use!

There's only one way to settle this thing. And that's a race around the bases with these three speed kings competing. It's not so impossible as it sounds, either. And, should it take place, who knows but that Hans Lobert's record mark of 13 4-5 seconds will fall by the wayside?

Zeppelin Sees Much of Unknown Lands

Strange as it may seem, most of the sections of Siberia over which the Graf passed have never been explored and are hardly known to man. Inhabited by simple people who have never seen anything of the outside world, the sight of the Zep over their heads frightened them. Above is a view of Jakustak, Siberia, where the passengers on the Graf could see some of the villagers running into their houses to escape the giant of the air.

Miss Aletha Herwig of St. Paul motored to Brainerd yesterday accompanied by her friend, Miss Nell Downs. Miss Downs returned to St. Paul this morning and Miss Herwig resumed her duties as a teacher in the high school here.

C. D. Nelson of Montgomery Ward & Company returned last night from Duluth, where he spent the week-end and Labor Day with his family. He was accompanied back to Brainerd by N. P. Nelson and Charles Cluff, also of the Brainerd Montgomery Ward store.

The Misses Dorothy Hanson, Mary Jane Thompson, Mardelle Mraz, Lorraine Palmer, Lena Gravelle, Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Ohms, Milton Bergstrand, Bernard Mraz, Jack Thompson, Ray Pratt and Earl DeRocher returned last night from a motor trip to Port Arthur and Fort William, Canada. They were gone over the week end and Labor Day.

Wall Street's Rim to Become Residence Zone

New York.—Night life in Wall street, heretofore the fate of tired clerks, takes on new meaning with the announcement that a rim of residential towers will rise in the foothills of the financial district.

Until recent years a visitor to the banking and stock trading area after dark would be followed by echoes of his own footsteps and meet no one but charwomen.

When the rank and file of citizens began to patronize their local brokerage house branches the situation changed. The daytime population of lower Manhattan doubled, then tripled.

Employees and executives were obliged to remain at their desks clearing up the day's mass of business long after the theaters had sent their patrons home. They had their choice of spending the night in an uptown hotel or making a long trip to their suburban homes.

The need for adequate downtown housing facilities finally became so urgent that a group of leading banking and investment houses have backed a project to erect a city of apartment homes on ground where Peter Stuyvesant and his friends used to discuss the Indian menace.

Currency Features

Certain national banks in the United States are used as depositories for government bonds, and the banks pay 2 per cent interest on these. In the case of currency, banks purchase government bonds against which they issue national bank notes. These bonds are held by the government as security against notes put in circulation. The government pays 2 per cent interest on these bonds.

Presidential Succession

In the event of both the President and Vice President of the United States dying or being removed from office the secretary of state would serve until a President was elected. The remainder of the order of succession is: Secretary of the treasury, secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the navy, and secretary of the interior.

Crepe de Chine Makes Raincoat for Travel

A raincoat for packing into a small suit case is made of crepe de chine and looks at a glance like any afternoon coat. The collar fits high in back and ends with a full scarf that is worn thrown over the right shoulder. The sleeves are not too full and are finished with a puffed cuff that has a snugly fitting wrist band. Although the general cut favors straight, slender lines, the bottom part is made of a circular or flaring flounce, which is highly flattering. A narrow belt carries out the new waistline. This coat is lined in a contrasting color and may be had in navy blue, black, dark green and brown.

One of the new large pouch bags for use during the warm weather is made with or without thumb loops. The bag has no frame, the sides coming in to conceal an inside flap, which covers an inside section holding a change purse and mirror.

Frock of Long-Sleeved Type for Dinner Wear

Enter the formal long-sleeved dinner frock! This new adaptation promises to win popularity, because it has many virtues to recommend it. Chief among these virtues is the increased gracefulness which sleeves add to trailing hem lines, floating panels and swathed hips. One charming frock of the long-sleeved type was fashioned of natural colored lace as to bodice and hip band; dark brown lace made the skirt and bolero. Another, of bright red starched chiffon carried seamed panels extending in loose crisp flares to the ankle. With the dress was worn onyx brilliant jewelry and black satin slippers.

Navy blue is always well chosen for little girls and their big sisters, and this year a rather bright shade of navy blue—not bright enough to be royal blue—has come into favor among well dressed women for summer resort wear.

An eighteen-year-old girl recently looked especially attractive in a two-piece suit of this clear navy blue, the jacket lined with candy striped silk and the blouse of fine white linen. With this were worn beige stockings, black patent leather shoes and handbag and a natural straw-colored hat with a black ribbon band.

Short Skirt Retains Popularity in Paris

Skirts still are short, says a Paris fashion correspondent. Even in those evening gowns that boast the longest draperies in the back, there is nearly always some movement or line that suggests the short skirt.

Some of the prettiest and most youthful models are made this way. Other evening dresses have their shortest line in the back, with draperies or panels at the side or in the front. Afternoon dresses frequently have an even hem, with only the rippling effect that comes from the flare of the skirt. Many, of course, do have uneven hem effects, usually at the side.

Brown Patent Leather Trimming for Footwear

Brown patent leather is regarded as a most distinctive trimming for shoes. This material is of a dark brown tint and is used for perforated bands which decorate brown lizard, snake and calf or suede shoes. It is also used for straps and narrow decorative strips. The heels of the newest street shoes are usually Cuban in shape and about two inches high. They are of the built up leather construction instead of being a wooden block with leather covering.

When Harry Proposed

By H. IRVING KING

(Copyright.)

"ALLIE, I am in love," Harry Drayton popped this out at the end of a short silence in the conversation between himself and Allison Gower. He accompanied the remark with a sigh. They were on a hotel piazza; the moon was on the mountains and moonlight on the river. "You must have seen, Allie," went on the young man, "the—er—state of my heart. I—I—must know my fate tomorrow. I am sure you—"

"Oh Harry," cried Allison, "please don't say any more tonight—please don't. I will give you an answer tomorrow morning." She had risen from her chair and stood ready for flight.

Harry with a gasp sat up straight in his chair. "But Allie," he cried, "you don't understand what I am trying to—"

"Oh, yes, I understand," broke in the agitated Allie. "Goodnight, dear"—and she was gone.

"Well, of all the—!" Words failed Drayton for further remark. He sat staring out blankly into the moonlit night. He and Allison Gower had been friends from childhood. From the time he could remember, he had always confided in Allie. And now, when he had attempted to tell her that he was in love with Annie Blair, Allison had gone and taken his attempt as a proposal of marriage to herself.

"By George," he thought, "what's to be done? From the way she took it, her answer to my supposed proposal will be yes. Then I shall be in a pretty pickle! What's the way out? Danged if I know." The more he thought, the more bewildered he became.

If Harry was in a daze so was Allie. She had always looked upon marriage as a most respectable and almost universal custom to which, some day, she might possibly be called upon to conform. But now it jumped from the realm of the abstract into the realm of the concrete with a suddenness which was rather startling. There was Harry Drayton suddenly changed from a life-long friend and confidant into a would-be husband. If she really had to take a husband she could not just then think of anybody she preferred in that capacity to Harry. But how much better he was as just a friend.

There came a tap at the door. It was Annie Blair, who always stopped for a chat with her dear friend Allie on her way to bed. Allie sometimes wished that Annie, who was a great talker, would occasionally omit this nightly visit, but tonight she hailed her as a visiting angel. For Allie regarded Annie as so worldly wise and experienced—which she was not—that counsel from her could not but be of value. Allie said: "Annie, what do you think of marriage?"

"What a question," cried Annie. "I think it's something greatly to be desired, of course—provided you get the right man. And I expect to be married myself before long—in fact, I know I'm going to be. But you must not tell a living soul until I tell you to."

"Oh, Annie," cried Allison, "how did you feel when he proposed?"

"Oh, he hasn't proposed yet," returned Annie calmly, "but he's going to tomorrow."

"How—how do you know?" gasped Allie.

"How do I know?" retorted Annie; "how do those figures in the barometer know when to come in and go out in advance of the weather? I am as sure Harry Drayton is going to propose to me tomorrow as I am that I am going to accept him. Hasn't he told you he was in love with me? You and he are such chums and confidants that I supposed he had told you before this."

Now Allison Gower was a simple soul but not without sense and resource when driven into a corner. Next morning Harry Drayton received the following note signed "Allie";

"Dear Harry—I ought not to have been so perturbed last night when you confided in me your intention of proposing to Annie Blair; for of course I have long seen how you felt toward her. You may have thought it strange in me to run away as I did, but the fact is marriage is such a serious matter that no advice should be given without due consideration concerning it—no hasty approval or disapproval. I wanted time to think, and I have thought. And after due consideration I have come to the conclusion that Annie is just the one to make you a good wife. So I give you both my blessing in the capacity of an old maid sister and hope both of you will continue to make me your confidant."

Harry Drayton swallowed this letter "hook, line and sinker," as the saying is. True, he could not remember having mentioned Annie Blair's name in his attempted confidence—but then, of course, Allie must have seen. His attentions to Annie had been rather pronounced. He told Annie about it after he had proposed, and Annie said, "Oh, yes, of course," with a rather queer look on her face. But neither by word nor sign did she ever intimate to Allie that she suspected the truth. Perhaps she didn't.

Of course you want to know if Allison Gower was ever married. She was, and she knew that the young man she eventually married was going to propose to her two months before he did so—just as Annie had told her she would.

St. Paul, Sept. 3.—(U.P.)—Officials of the Minnesota state fair and Northwest Livestock Exposition today predicted near-record attendance for the week after the largest Labor Day attendance in several years.

Early attendance today apparently was undiminished and for the third consecutive day a larger crowd was expected than 1922. Approximately 136,000 persons passed through the turnstiles Monday as compared to 131,222 on Labor Day last year.

A program of horse racing, airplane stunting and vaudeville acts again was scheduled for the thousands of visitors today and judging of the livestock, agricultural and industrial exhibits continued in full swing.

A record of no arrests or serious injuries was claimed by the fair board today as a checkup showed the most serious mishap occurred when a cook cut his finger with a meat knife. No drunkenness has been noted and the fair crowd is the most orderly in history, it was said.

A feature of the grandstand show Monday was the announcement that Miss Margaret Anderson of Brainerd had been selected queen of the air over 10 other young women from all sections of the state. Miss Anderson was awarded the titles of personality queen of Minnesota and official hostess of the fair, and will be queen of the air in connection with the airplane stunt show Friday.

The reign of Goodhue and Rice counties as "monarchs" in the county exhibits competition was broken this year by Blue Earth county.

Blue Earth swept the field in the exhibits late Monday when it was given a rating of 1,245 out of a possible 1,300. Dakota county was second.

Blue Earth also won the southern section contests, Meeker county the central section and Aitkin county the northern section.

Meanwhile the following grand champion awards were made in the livestock contests:

Belgian stallion, Earle Brown, superintendent of the State Highway patrol and former Hennepin county sheriff, Clydesdale stallion, Boyd Brothers, Warren, Canada.

Red Polled bull, Tracey & Warye, Nashua, Iowa.

Ayrshire bull, F. H. Bastins, Cedar Falls, Ia.

Shropshire sheep, Dolores Lippert, 12-year-old, exhibitor of Ottertail county.

Gail Prushek, Crosby, won first prize at the state fair for second year Guernsey calf in 4-H club competition and Florence Jones, of Deerwood, won fourth prize in the yearling Guernsey purebred class, it was announced today.

BANDIT CAR SEEN? SEARCH CONTINUES

Bert Sabin, Mission, Reports Big Blue Sedan Speeding Past Farm This Morning

CAR ELUDES SEARCHERS

Authorities Work on Theory That Three Bandits are "Undercover" Near Here

Continuing to work on the theory that the three bandits who held up and robbed the Farmers State bank of Pequot of $9,000 last Wednesday were "undercover" at some cottage at a lake in Crow Wing county, authorities continued their search today.

A phone call from Bert Sabin, farmer, at Mission, that he sighted a blue Hupmobile 8 sedan speeding down the country road towards White Line No. 3 this morning caused a flurry of excitement. Armed with automatics authorities started in search of the car. Up to 2 p. m. today no trace of it had been found.

A show up will be made today to determine if Gilbert Peterson, Minneapolis bandit slain and Bill Finn, wounded, in an attempted robbery at Minneapolis yesterday, had any connection with the Pequot robbery.

Finn will further be questioned today as to possible connection with the robbery of the First National bank of Ironton in November 1922.

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

EDDIE REGAN has been persuaded to join a gang of which the "Big Guy" is the leader. Bernice Veressi, a "gang girl," is in love with Eddie, but he becomes disgusted and breaks away. Boarding a freight train, he makes his escape to Virginia, where he meets Marian Thorndike. She and Eddie help Penfield Paradine, a Southern aristocrat, who has been stricken with paralysis, and Eddie finds shelter under Paradine's roof. Penfield takes a turn for the worse, and Marian comes to inquire for him. Uncle Tobe, the negro servant, tells Eddie that "Miss Marian isn't engaged, but she has no time for strange Yankees." Eddie realizes the difference between himself and these people.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

HE beheld the head and face of a young man in his middle twenties. So far as he could tell, it was just an ordinary countenance. He looked about the same as anybody else—his forehead was rather square and the brows above the blue eyes were black, like the thick hair neatly brushed back on his head. But behind that face—what kind of a mind did he have? Was there anything in him capable of development, or was he just tough and ignorant and impudent?

She, Marian Thorndike, had looked at that face and he wondered if she had found it good or evil—or, worse, totally uninteresting?

Penfield Paradine, that evening, insisted that Eddie dine downstairs.

"You've been guarding my sick room off and on all day like a watch dog," the older man said with a feeble, courteous smile. "I'm not going to have you eat your dinner off a tray up here as though you were an invalid yourself. Tobe is going to fix you a real dinner in the dining room."

Sitting alone at the broad expanse of the dining table Eddie was acutely conscious of a spirit of elegance that lingered in the room, from old, all but forgotten days.

Tobe had lit four candles in silver sticks; the china was finer than any Eddie had ever seen before but it was cracked and nicked from clumsy handling; the knives and forks were heavy silver. Shadows loomed in the room and there was a burnished gloss from the wide sideboard. Vacant chairs were all around him—had the table been extended with extra leaves the room could have accommodated, almost a banquet.

There moved across his mind a succession of restaurant pictures wherein he had eaten from porcelain topped tables, or from cloths spotted with red wine and drops of gravy. Frowsy waitresses came back to his vision; menus grease-stained and stuck in little metal racks. He could see his fellow patrons eating with clattering tableware and pale coffee drooled in thick saucers.

Yes, this was a better, more dignified way of living than any he had ever known. He would eat carefully; like a gentleman, he would make no noise. As old Tobe put the dishes before him Eddie chose his implements with care. Amid such surroundings it seemed impolite to be careless of little things.

His mind began playing him tricks. Somehow, he could fancy Marian Thorndike sitting with him. An understanding came to him that eating was something more than filling the stomach; it could be a social pleasure, a time for aesthetic realizations. It might represent an attitude toward life—an association of intellect and affection and charm.

The image of Marian Thorndike before him filled him with a glowing, warm delight. He invented a new personality for himself—he was still the same Eddie Regan but, mysteriously, he had gathered deeper things to himself, a new knowing confidence to wipe out any feeling of inferiority. They would be equals and she would realize that the man she had married was a civilized being. They would talk about books and things like that. They would discuss romance and would be understood. They would be madly in love with each other forever. He was unaware of what he ate.

With an effort he shook off such glamorous dreams and left the table. Tomorrow, he knew, he must begin to find some kind of work.

Not indefinitely could he remain idle. If he could put his body, his arms and hands to some actual labor he would feel that he was never been known to hurry in his life.

When Marian Thorndike came in the mid-afternoon she and Eddie sat together for a while in Penfield Paradine's room.

"It has been sweet of you, child, to come and see me this day," said the diminishing voice.

"Maybe if I had married years ago I might have had a daughter like you, or a son like this young man. Life must go on but I've done nothing myself to keep it going. I've been a broken link in the chain. When I go I leave nothing behind that will live after me. Just a few acres, a house and furniture to be sold and scattered."

"If you know of any relatives anywhere that we could send for—" Marian tried to say.

Keating Wins Race

Edward Keating of New York won first place and the prize money of $25,000 in the Fourth Annual Wrigley Marathon, held at Toronto. The course was fifteen miles long and lake winds made the going rough but this didn't bother "Ed."

Denotes Duplicate

Asterisks or small stars are placed before the serial number on paper bills which have taken the place of defective bills. It merely means that the note bearing the serial number preceded by a star has taken the place of a defective note in circulation.

Rigid Betrothals

There still is to be found a section of the world where there are no faithless lovers. In Greenland the customs are so strong that even now no young man or woman has failed to abide by the betrothal promise. Tribal laws have made death the penalty.

Originated in Dispute

"Rattening" was the term applied to the act of concealing or taking away workmen's tools to prevent them being used during labor disputes two generations ago.

ABRAHAMSON WINS THE LONG DISTANCE SWIM LABOR DAY

FINISHES OVER TWO AND A HALF MILE ROUGH COURSE IN 41 MINUTES

"SPIRIT OF BRAINERD" DRIVEN BY CARL OLSON PLACES 2ND IN MOTOR RACE

In the two and a half mile swim at Lum Park on Labor Day, "Happy" Abrahamson, local high school athlete, won first place over a rough course in forty-one minutes.

Dick Robischon of Little Falls was second, and Miss Alma Hanski of Brainerd placed third.

Abrahamson set a terrific pace from the start. The race was a neck-and-neck affair during the first half, but "Happy" gradually pulled away during the last half, and won with ease.

"I'm Alone" Wins
With a time of one hour and 54 minutes, Cox of Minneapolis, driving "I'm Alone," won the 50-mile outdoor motor marathon race at Lum Park Sunday afternoon. When Cox finished Carl Olson, Brainerd, driving "The Spirit of Brainerd" had travelled 43 miles. He placed second.

Ross, of Duluth, driving "Oh Ho," finished one-half mile behind Olson and Ryan of Duluth came in fourth, travelling 32 miles.
